

ABSTRACT

A wireless communication system comprising a management server, base stations, and a plurality of node terminals, wherein a wireless communication protocol to be applied is switched 5 dynamically based on such indices as but error, packet error rate, the number of times of retransmitting packets, throughput/ power consumption that may occur between each base station and nodes.